DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 11 and 18 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is not clear what a "C" section is. Please clearly claim the invention. Revision is necessary.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1 and 7 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the admitted state of the art (ASA, specification paragraphs 2 – 15, figure 1). The ASA discloses a washing machine comprising a front cover, a door, side covers, a back cover, a top cover, and a vertical panel frame with holes 21 readable on supporting means. The supporting means support the top cover's ribs 32. The panel frame 20 supports a control panel. Thus, claims 1 and 7 are clearly anticipated by the ASA.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 2-6, 8-20 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the ASA in view of Faini (GB 2243770). The ASA clearly discusses locating a control panel at the upper region of the front cover of a washing machine. However, the ASA does not disclose a panel with a recessed portion thus forming a bead or ledge to support the top cover. Instead, the supporting mechanisms in the ASA are holes. However, Faini discloses a top cover supporting mechanism that could be readily implemented into the panel of the ASA. Faini teaches a recessed hook 20 along with a recessed bead 13b that matingly engages with the top cover and its peripheral frame (see figure 4). The top cover's frame sits on hook 12, and is held in place by the bead. In regards to claim 2, 5, and 15, the process by which the components are made is not germane to the issue of patentability. Furthermore, machine pressing and machine bending are very established in the art. Faini additionally teaches an enamel coated top cover. In regards to claim 8 and 16, the top cover supporting member includes a hook. The hook is formed at an upper front edge. The top cover is placed on an upper portion of the supporting member. In regards to claims 11 and 18, the hook can be fastened to the hook fastening slot and is in close contact with the upper and lower surfaces. In regards to claim 12, polyacetal is a known polymer in the art and its mere inclusion does not warrant patentability. It would have been obvious at the time of invention to modify the ASA and include a control panel frame with the support features of Faini, in order to support the top cover of the washing machine.
